An underwater scene with a dark blue background. In the upper left, a sea turtle with a light blue shell and darker blue spots swims towards the right. In the lower right, a large blue whale with white markings on its belly swims towards the left. The scene is decorated with various elements: several small, light blue fish are scattered throughout; two pieces of branching coral are visible, one on the left and one on the right; and several translucent, light blue bubbles of different sizes are floating around. A white rectangular border frames the central text.
